INSTRUCTIONS

Read each of the following sentences carefully. Identify the grammatical error related to determiners, articles, or compound adjectives, and rewrite the sentence correctly.

1. A ten-years-old boy won the national chess championship.
2. The little friends he has are all extremely loyal and helpful.
3. We need to buy some more furniture for the other room.
4. He gave me an advice on how to clear the competitive examination.
5. Few knowledge is a dangerous thing when dealing with medical emergencies.
6. Every students must submit their assignments before Friday afternoon.
7. Can you pass me another books from that shelf?
8. There isn't many hope left for rescuing the trapped miners.
9. She stayed at a five-stars hotel during her trip to Paris.
10. The few money she earned was used to pay her college fees.

IMPORTANT CONCEPT RULE

Hyphenated Modifiers: When a number and unit of measurement form a compound adjective before a noun (e.g., a ten-year-old boy, a five-star hotel), the unit noun must remain in the singular form because adjectives do not take plural endings.
